

Property & State Tax Relief

Property and state taxes can be a heavy burden — but many people qualify for exemptions, freezes, and rebates they never claim. Below is how to find relief. Tick the box once you've checked each one.

⚠ BEFORE YOU START

Most property-tax relief comes from your state, county, or town — and you usually have to apply. Seniors, veterans, people with disabilities, and lower-income homeowners often qualify. Applying is free.

1 Common Property Tax Breaks

Programs that lower or freeze what you owe on your home.

☐ Homestead Exemption

Most states reduce property tax on your primary home. Ask your county assessor how to apply.

→ Ask your county tax assessor

☐ Senior & Disability Freezes/Exemptions

Many areas freeze or cut property taxes for seniors and people with disabilities.

→ Ask your county tax assessor

2 Relief for Specific Groups

Extra breaks for veterans and lower-income homeowners.

☐ Veteran Property Tax Exemptions

Many states reduce or eliminate property tax for eligible veterans, especially disabled veterans.

☐ Circuit Breaker & Rebate Programs

Many states offer rebates when property tax is high relative to income. Search your state + "property tax rebate."

→ Search your state + 'property tax relief'

3 If You're Behind on Property Tax

Options to avoid losing your home to a tax sale.

☐ Payment Plans & Deferrals

Many counties let you pay overdue property tax over time, or defer it for seniors. Ask your tax office before a tax sale.

→ Ask your county tax office

☐ Free Legal Help

If you face a tax foreclosure, legal aid may help. See the Free Legal Help & Legal Aid guide.

4 Challenge an Unfair Assessment

If your home is over-valued, you may be overpaying.

☐ Appeal Your Property Assessment

If your assessed value seems too high, you can appeal it — often free. Ask your assessor about the deadline.

→ Ask your county assessor about appeals

⚠ WATCH OUT FOR

Watch for companies offering to “lower your property taxes” for a big fee — you can usually apply for exemptions and appeals yourself for free through your county. Never pay to “claim” a rebate you can get directly.

★ A TIP THAT HELPS

Check with your county assessor every year — exemptions aren’t always automatic, and deadlines matter. A single homestead or senior exemption can save hundreds annually.
